

Food is broken into small particles by the teeth and enzymes in saliva.

Food is squeezed and pushed into the stomach.

Enzymes and digestive acids break down the food and nutrients are released.

Nutrients are absorbed and passed into the bloodstream.

Left over water is absorbed and waste is removed.

Mouth

Stomach

Oesophagus

Large intestine

Small intestine